THE CITY.

Died.
In this city, Wednesday, December 14, at 9 o'clock a.m., at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. John McKinnis, Mrs. Mary E. Hill, the funeral will take place this morning at 10 o'clock.

Explainers.
In the hurry and confusion unavoidably incident to the removal of the city and its change of location, some of our advertisers this morning may find their advertisements misplaced, and in some instances they may have been omitted. The publishers trust, however, all omissions and errors will be kindly overlooked, as they will be recalled to-morrow. With the best of management and attention, it is always attended by imperfections.

The Dickens Party.
Residents of the city will surely forget that to-night, in the federal court room, the ladies of St. Paul's Guild will use their best efforts to make the annual church fair and Dickens party an unusually attractive event. The refreshments will be of the most excellent kind, while the special features will be of a highly entertaining order. Indeed, the social element of the city will hardly need any urging to attend, for they have had abundant evidence of the power of the Guild to please.

Cemetery Benefit.
As has been heretofore announced, the Texas Company has tendered a benefit to the city authorities and in recognition of the old cemetery on First street. The EXAMINER is therefore respectfully requesting Mayor Starnes and Aldermen McLean and chairman of the cemetery committee, to announce that to-night, at the theater on Bridge street, the entertainment will be given, the entire proceeds to be turned over to the mayor. It is proper in this connection to announce that the company will do its best to make it interesting to the audience, with the commendable and charitable object in view.

The Missouri Pacific.
Mr. C. L. Gates yesterday visited the end of the Missouri Pacific track to escort General Manager Talmage and party to the city in carriages. The party came no further than eight miles from the city, and finding matters progressing slowly returned to Fort Worth. Their visit of inspection was therefore postponed until about January 1. Mr. Gates says the track is five miles from the city and that the line will not reach here until Tuesday evening next. The storm of Tuesday washed out several culverts and otherwise delayed the work. Nothing will be done today. From the best information at hand it is now confidently believed that the line will not be completed to Waco until it gets here, at least not until it does get here.

A Religious "Silver Wedding."
In the New Orleans Democrat of Monday we find an interesting account of an unusually able sermon preached in that city on Sunday morning last by Rev. Thos. B. Markham, D. D., pastor of the Lafayette Presbyterian church. It was the twenty-fifth anniversary of his pastorate of that church—a religious "silver wedding," so to say. Mr. Markham has visited Austin and Waco, and is highly esteemed here. He is, by the way, a relative of the Rev. Dr. S. A. King, the worthy pastor of Second Street Presbyterian church of Waco, and also of our young townsmen, John and Jesse Sleeper. During his twenty-five years of pastoral work in New Orleans, Dr. Markham has added over one thousand names to the communion rolls of his church and baptized over seven hundred children. His life has been an eminently upright and useful one.

The Telephone's Farewell.
Although now merged into the daily EXAMINER, and the combination is to be employed in an effort to give the people of Texas a paper second to none in an equal field, the daily Telephone has not made its farewell bow, but will, on January 1, present to its readers the miniature edition which it promised them some time ago. It will be made up from yesterday morning's edition (the last regular edition) of the Telephone, with the addition of several poems from our leading literary lights and a number of choice selections from our best writers. All that was promised will be faithfully carried out and as it is the only issue of the Telephone that will appear hereafter, this daily Telephone will be quite a souvenir. On the morning of January 1 it will appear as promised, and each person who commended for space in it will be represented.

Railroad Changes.
The face of Mr. T. F. Jones, which has been so familiar to the telegraphists of the H. and T. C. road in East Waco for a number of years past, will be seen there no more after January 1. He has tendered his resignation to the company and at the opening of the year will take the ticket-office of the M. P. at this point. While he and his family are neither friendly to both, we are constrained to say that in this change the Central has sustained a loss and the Missouri Pacific a decided gain. Mr. Jones is perhaps as well known a ticket-man as the Central had in its employ, outside of Houston, and while at all times found laboring for the interests of the company he represented, he or his employers lost nothing, but gained much by being courteous to the public. In personal compliment to him we must say that he made a host of friends, and if any enemies he knows them.

Of Interest.
The following extract from a private letter written by Col. W. W. Watkins will be of interest to those of the citizens of McLennan county and Waco who are desirous of securing farm laborers and house servants:
"A steamship company, the British American, has been organized with ample means to put on a line of steamships to Galveston. It has for the present chartered two ships, the 'Quebec' and the 'Tasmania,' and the latter on the 26th. They will go loaded to their gunwales with freight and their decks crowded with strong, active immigrants, whose muscle is to be spent in developing the resources of the country. This line is to be a permanent one, making bi-monthly trips. I understand that the company has about completed their negotiations for the purchase of four first-class steamships and are contracting for the building of four more."
With the assistance of a good agent from Waco, who can be procured on the arrival of each steamer, our section can be readily supplied with the labor that is needed.

A TOUGH CUSTOMER.

Marshal Moore Has Trouble in Making an Arrest.

Yesterday morning as Pink was taking up Austin street he passed a wagon and team moving along without any driver. After passing it Pink thought he had better turn back and thought the driverless outfit, but on approaching he discovered a man lying dead, and received a curse for a rascal. The man also pulled out a pistol and inquired what business it was of his, any way. Pink concluded it was none of his business just then, and gave Marshal Moore a pointer. Luke rode up to the man, with his arm full of groceries, and inquired what he had in his hand, to which the driver replied in the form of the question, "Is it any of your damned business?" and the further request that the marshal go where he belonged. The marshal, who was on to his residence, unloaded his bundle, hitched his horse, and awaited the early driver. As the team came opposite the house the marshal went out and stepping on the single-tree asked for the driver's pistol, which was duly presented, but wrong and foremost. Seeing the kind of a character he had to deal with Luke pulled his own pistol on the fellow and grabbed the latter's weapon at the same time. The man resisted, and the marshal had quite a tussle before he became reasonable and quit. Pink had come down and was holding the team when the marshal's pistol, pushing the latter over the side of the wagon in the moment. However, the marshal succeeded in getting a "chill" on the desperado's cheek and finally made him signal and give an unconditional surrender. Luke hurt his hand severely in the wrenching and it was painful him severely, but he gave the prisoner in charge of Pink and went into his house and telephoned for a policeman to come and assist him in taking the obstreperous customer to the calaboose, which was duly done. His name is not known, but he is a Frenchman, and was hauling a load of corn to his pockets. He had enough whisky along to be pugnacious but tolerably active, and Luke says he felt like yelling or screaming several times. Had the fellow succeeded in getting the marshal's pistol he would have shot him without any doubt whatever. The officer was in the "nine-hole" and knew it. After the row Luke went to a surgeon, who pronounced the third finger in the left hand broken, and last night he was wearing that hand in a sling and suffering a great deal of pain.

PERSONAL.

Major Marvin spent yesterday in the city. Major Tibbels was considerably better yesterday.

Treasurer Fish and Division Superintendent Sammons, of the Narrow Gauge, were in the city yesterday.

Major Wiley Jones is quite indisposed, and has been for some weeks, enough to practically nullify him for any active business. The disease, if it may be termed a disease, seems to be the result of a cold. Capt. P. L. Terrell was in the city yesterday. He took the train for Houston and will remain there several days. His horse is now in winter-quarters at Glen Rose, in Somervell county, where they will remain until active operations begin again.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Dick Goode Dangerously Hurt by a Mule Team.

Yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, an accident occurred on north Fourth street which may result seriously to Dick Goode, a wood-lanier. He had delivered a load of wood on that street, and in driving toward Austin street his mules became unmanageable when near the bridge which spans Barron's branch, and Mr. Goode was thrown from a high seat to the ground. He was taken to the residence of Mrs. Blankenship, near by, in an unconscious condition and surgical attendance summoned. From the physicians a reporter learned that the mules must have kicked the prostrate man, for the wounds, on the head, are of a character which could hardly have been inflicted in any other way. The scalp is lacerated on top and behind the right ear, the right jaw is broken in two places, and a severe wound is made back of the left ear, near the base of the brain. The surgeons are in doubt as yet whether this latter injury has produced a fracture of the base of the brain, as the injured man has not yet recovered consciousness. If the fracture is thus made the most serious results are expected to follow. The broken jaw and this doubtful wound are both very serious, and the physicians pronounce the condition of Mr. Goode very serious and critical in deed. There are also two bruises, but nothing dangerous, on the right arm and left back. The injured man, after the first dressing, was carefully removed to the residence of his mother on north Second street. At this writing the physicians are waiting for some change in the semi-unconscious condition of the patient to determine more fully and accurately the extent and true character of the most serious wound referred to above.

THAT BELLED BUZZARD.

The Carrion-Seeker Comes Home to Roost.

Readers of the EXAMINER will recall two mentions in these columns of a buzzard supposed to have a bell on, and that the peculiar tintinnulations created considerable astonishment in the sections visited by the musical scavenger. From the following letter the mystery will be made something like a practical solution. There can be but little doubt that the buzzard captured and belled in Dallas county is the same one noticed in these columns. Many people supposed the EXAMINER was perpetrating a hoax upon the reading public, but the appended and credible explanation will dispense their minds of such an idea:

RANSOM, Dallas county, December 12.—Editor Waco Examiner and Patron: In your issue of October 28 you stated that a belled buzzard had been seen in the neighborhood of Captain Westbrook, on Cow bayon, and again in your last issue (December 9) you state that it is now "circling around Howard and Stampepe, across the Bell county line." I will state that Mr. Chris. Huffines, of this place, about the 15th of October, caught a buzzard in a steel trap, and tied a small bell around it and turned it loose. The buzzard flew off to the southwest, and I presume it is the same buzzard that has been "worrying" the people of Bell county. Mr. Huffines claims the buzzard, and wishes the citizens of Bell county notified of his claim through your paper. Respectfully,

R. H. FLOYD.

The Lost Bridge.

The bridge that went down the Brazos Tuesday afternoon came from the White Rock crossing on the Fort Graham road. It was a good bridge, and a very high one. It cost the county $150. Until a few days ago there will be no crossing on that road. This will be done as soon as practicable.

Remember that on Friday night the fine silver service, with tray, will be pulled at Rogers'. Be there and look after your own cigars.
